3 POSTSECONDARY-READY COMPETENCIES

What does this mean?

- Postsecondary refers to the additional education or training options that you can select from after high school, such as, apprenticeship training, military, entering a career training program, earning certification required for a specific career, attending a two or four-year college, or other options.
- WHY? High school is that time period that you learn about and prepare for a specific career area through the classes you take and the activities you participate in to develop your employability skills. These experiences will help you select the right postsecondary option that aligns with your career area of interest.
- The Postsecondary Ready Competency – graduation requirement means you have to prove your postsecondary readiness through one of several options:

It is easier to choose from many options when they are organized in some way. So, occupations in our system are first divided into six very large groups. Then, each of those groups is divided into smaller groups.

CAREER OPTIONS—Find What Interests You!

CTE Pathway – Career & Technical Education Pathway

A Career Pathway is a series of classes focused on a specific career field. These classes provide opportunities for students to learn about a career area and may include dual credit options, industry certification, and/or work-based learning experiences through internships or job placement.

- CCMHS provides students numerous Career Pathway options at the school and NCAVC – North Central Area Vocational Cooperative
- Take advantage of these CTE Pathway courses by planning these classes into your high school schedule
